

[SAMPLE OP-ED FOR SCHOOL LIBRARIANS]

Want to help students get back on track? Look to your school librarians.

By [NAME OF AUTHOR]

Length (CHECK WITH YOUR LOCAL PAPER. TRADITIONALLY 500 – 600 WORD COUNT.)

Students, parents, teachers, and administrators have embraced the reopening of schools in [SCHOOL DISTRICT] with both anticipation and a tremendous sense of responsibility to advance academic progress and student well-being, to deepen engagement with all members of the learning community, and to ensure that inequities exacerbated by the rapid shutdown of schools last spring are addressed once and for all. [SCHOOL DISTRICT] librarians are at work supporting those efforts, and the district now has an opportunity to expand that work to the benefit of students and communities.

The sepia-toned image of school libraries as repositories of books was shattered during the early days of the pandemic. With reading and literacy as the very foundation of learning, school librarians did get books in a variety of formats into the hands of readers. They also distributed laptops, mobile hotspots, and other devices; prepared teachers to work with high quality digital resources; co-taught classes and led research across content areas and grade levels; implemented online clubs and learning opportunities to keep students connected to their learning communities and to each other; and partnered with community organizations to engage and support families.

[INCLUDE AN EXAMPLE FROM YOUR LIBRARY/DISTRICT/STATE THAT SHOWCASES THE WORK SCHOOL LIBRARIANS HAVE DONE DURING THE PANDEMIC OR SINCE THE RETURN TO IN-PERSON SCHOOLING.]

The empirical evidence is supported by more than 60 library and education studies from across the nation that highlight how effective school library programs transform teaching and learning and boost student success, not just in the classroom but in future educational pursuits, in the workplace, and in society. School librarians have

